

About Us

Captain Bruce Lothian: President of Lothian Aviation Incorporated

Bruce Lothian has 48 years of varied aviation experience and has flown aircraft from the very basic to the more sophisticated, high performance aircraft types. Over this time, he has accrued more than 16,000 hours of flying experience covering Canada (from the High Arctic to the 49th), the continental U.S., Mexico, the Caribbean, the U.K., Europe, North Africa and Saudi Arabia. As a Company Check Pilot for the Fairchild Hiller FH - 227 with Nordair Airlines, Bruce was responsible for all facets of flight and simulator training, scheduling and evaluation for 42 pilots. His range of duties also included: contract training of non-Canadian pilots, new-hire pilot interviews, initial and recurrent training of Transport Canada Inspectors and amending and updating Operations Manuals and Ground School syllabus criteria for Arctic operations.

Alistair Beaton - Master Air Pilot - Vice President of Lothian Aviation Incorporated

In addition to being the Chief Flight Instructor at Vancouver Aviation College, Alistair is the Chairman. Of the Honourable Company of Air Pilots for North America and a Director in the College of Professional Pilot of Canada. More than 50 years ago, Alistair embarked on a flying career that he is still pursuing with great enthusiasm today. His aviation career began with the RAF Air Training Corps in the UK and has taken him all over the world. Alistair finally settled in British Columbia in 1982 and since that time has instructed hundreds of students in many of the most highly praised flight schools in the province. He is a well respected instructor within the industry and is held in very high regard by many Transport Canada personnel. Alistair ensures that each student receives highly personalized instruction, instilling the confidence they need for their aviation endeavours. Alistair Beaton is a prime example of a passionate and enthusiastic aviator who is highly focused on safety flying skills. He too is dedicated to excellence in aviation.
